Refugee Program Called 'Disgrace'

Former Gen. and Mrs. Lam Quang Thi

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The government's program to aid Vietnamese refugees was called "a public disgrace" Monday by the chairman of the Vietnamese Refugee Assistance Committee at Stanford University.

Robert G. Hammerton-Kelley, dean of the university's church, said "bureaucratic red tape" is stymieing efforts by volunteer groups, such as his, to effectively aid the refugees.

Kelley's organization was formed some two months ago to give long-range aid to the refugees. His program is backed by a group of American-Vietnamese.

But all that he has been able to do so far is start a library at Camp Pendleton and perform limited public relations on trying to overcome the frozen job mart, Kelley said.

Kelley said his group published a pamphlet designed to acquaint refugees with United States' customs.

The "arrogance of bureaucrats" prevented the pamphlet from being distributed, Kelley charged.

Officials in higher government circles are not available to comment on the charges.

However, officials on the county and city level, dealing directly with the problem, have reported little progress being made in aiding the refugees.

Already an estimated 100 refugees have settled in San Mateo County.

Of this number, eight cases are receiving assistance, according to Bob Rippeto, Director of Social Services for the County of San Mateo.

These "cases" involve either general assistance or Aid to Dependent Families.

The Federal government earlier vowed to appropriate monies to help the more than 134,000 refugees now on U.S. soil.

These funds have been slow in trickling down to local levels, officials agree.

Rippeto said he had been informed the government recently had passed a law providing aid to refugees, but he has not received any information on the matter.

Meanwhile, refugees qualify for food stamps if they have no source of income.

Mrs. Alice Gonzalez Kessler, head of the Daly City

Guadalupe Health Clinic Mgr. Shelley Fernandez said 21 Vietnamese refugees have thus far sought aid and advice at the Wellington Street facility.

She expected this number to increase in coming

GOP Considering Cow Palace

DC Welcomes '76 Convention

Despite costs for police services that could run as high as $150,000, the Republican National Convention would be welcome in Daly City, Mayor Victor Kyriakis said today.

While no positive location for the convention has yet been decided upon, Kyriakis and members of the Cow Palace Board of Directors discussed Tuesdsy with members of the GOP Site Selection Committee the possibility of using the hall.

The last GOP convention held at Daly City's Cow Palace was in 1964, when Barry Goldwater was chosen to be the party's standardbearer.

Police costs for that convention were $34,000 over normal budget. The tab was picked up by San Mateo County because when arrangements were made for the convention the Cow Palace was in the county.

But the question of who will help offset the added financial burden of the 1976 convention -- if the Cow Palace is chosen by the committee Sept. 8 — is not known, Kyriakis said.

The costs would "have to be worked out," Kyriakis explained.

He said he was not contemplating that Daly City would pick up the entire cost of providing police services. Asst. Police Chief Richard Sims put the cost as high as $150,000.

Sims was in charge of police protection for the 1964 convention here. He has supplied Kyriakis with facts and figures on that convention, it was learned.

Kyriakis said he thinks the convention being held here "would be great for the area."

He pointed up the fact that 1976 is the United State's Bicentennial year and to combine this celebration with a national attention-getter such as the Grand Old Party's convention would be a plus for Daly City.

However, Kyriakis admitted the city probably would realize little financial benefit from the delegates and their support services.

Most of those delegates would be staying in San Francisco hotels, eating in San Francisco restaurants and shopping in downtown San Francisco.

There perhaps would be some support personnel staying on the Peninsula, according to present draft plans on the subject.

Meanwhile, arrangements must be made to expand the Cow Palace to hold 2,000 more persons than were crowded into the same hall 11 years ago.

Additionally, the Cow Palace would have to reschedule numerous events for several weeks around the convention.

Edwin G. Middleton, chairman of the selection committee, said San Francisco is among six cities now being scouted as possible sites — Miami Beach, Fla.; Kansas City, Mo.; Cleveland, Ohio; Los Angeles; and New Orleans, La. being the others.

The committee already has visited five of the proposed sites and is expected soon to survey New Orleans, Middleton said.

If New Orleans is selected, it will be the site of both the GOP and Democratic national conventions.

Sex-Role Study OKd

A model for changing sex-role stereotyping in the Jefferson Elementary School District was approved by the board of trustees Wednesday night.

However, the approval was not made before Trustee Alvin Schwarzbach questioned the value of the project and the lack of input by parents and public in developing the proposal.

"It's still my opinion that we have not considered the psychological and emotional impact of this project, especially with the variety of cultural backgrounds we have in this district," Schwarzbach said.

The model is a joint project with the Cupertino Union School District. The two districts submitted the proposal to the State Department of Education earlier this year and secured funding for a three-year-period.

Dr. Chris Westphal, one of the project authors, said the model will cost $28,948 the first year and increasing amounts the following two years.

The proposal provides for voluntary teacher in-service training with paid substitute release time to allow teachers to learn techniques for changing and dealing with sex-role stereotyping in textbooks and classroom.

Schwarzbach said he believes it would be "ill-advised for this district to participate."

"I think our energies can best be applied elsewhere," the trustee said.

He said the district typically seeks some advisory input from the community when applying for state or federal funding. No input, however, was obtained in planning this project, he said.

Supt. Herbert Hemington said the lack of public input was "an oversight on our part."

Westphal said some changes were made in the project as a result of meeting with state department officials.

He said a parent advisory committee to review materials was added to the project, as were plans to evaluate the discrimination of males in the educational system.

The parent committee, he said, will be represented equally by sex. It will validate the content of any instructional materials before they are used in the classroom.

Dr. Vinton Stratton, associate superintendent of instruction, said there is no specific requirement the school districts must teach to do away with sex stereotyping.

"However, implications in our society are in favor of teaching whatever is necessary to do away with artificial discrimination," Stratton said.

Trustees approved the project 3-1, with Schwarzbach voting "no" and Mrs. Beverly Forrester abstaining.

In other business, the trustees:

- Received a negotiations packet from the Administrative Employes Council including a request for a cost-of-living adjustment based on the Bay Area Cost-of-Living Index of 12.5 per cent.
- Approved a child abuse policy which will allow school employes to contact local police and the county department of public health and welfare if a student appears to have been abused.
- Approved the position of district librarian.

Robbery At Gas Station

A motorcyclist wearing a crash helmet and face mask held up the Serramonte Shell Oil station at Callan and Serramonte boulevards Saturday and fled with an undisclosed amount of money.

Police said the man, described as between 25-30 years old, 6 feet, 165 pounds and wearing a tan corduroy coat, brown slacks and red shoes, came into the service station about 10:30 p.m. on a motorcycle.

Witnesses said there was no license plate on the motorcycle.

Councilman Lauds Bicentennial Spirit

America's Bicentennial celebrations will pull the country out of its Watergate related doldrums, Daly City Councilman McRobert Stewart predicted Thursday.

Stewart, in his talk to the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce, said, "Some people say the bicentennial celebrations are a waste of time because of all the bad publicity the country has gone through in the past four years.

"But in 1976 the country will be pulled back together," he said.

The chairman of the Bicentennial program for the city said the eagle "is a symbol of strength to this country."

And while the eagle has had its wings clipped in recent years, Daly City was going to do its part to repair this symbol, Stewart vowed.

Plans unveiled to chamber members Thursday included a gala parade with all ethnic groups within the city participating; an "old fashioned" picnic and carnival; and, a day-long town hall meeting where people can come and express themselves in an open forum.

Meanwhile, Daly City is trying to establish sister-city bicentennial ties with Providence, R.I.

One of Daly City's founders, Robert S. Thornton, was born in Providence and this ties the cities together, Stewart said.

San Mateo Superior Court Judge Melvin Cohn has sustained an injunction against a Daly City homeowner who wanted to build an extension to his home.

The Westlake Subdivisions Improvement Association had filed the action against George and Catherine Horsfall after neighbors complained the extension would allow persons to peer into their windows.

Also named in the suit, filed by attorney Hartley Appleton, was the City of Daly City.

Daly City was named because it had issued Horsfall a building permit.

Attorney Albert Polonsky argued that the city did not have to abide by building covenants set down by a private homeowners' association.

Judge Cohn agreed and dismissed the suit against the city.

The Horsfall's attorney, Paul Hupf, said the covenants of the WSIA were non-enforceable and the injunction should be lifted, thus allowing his client to complete the extension.

Hupf said the original covenants, drafted in 1949, had a

3 Hurt In DC Blaze

Three firemen were injured fighting a fire that completely destroyed a wing of the Woodrow Wilson Elementary School in Daly City Wednesday, causing an estimated $100,000 in damages.

The two-alarm fire was believed to be the work of an arsonist, fire officials said today.

None of the firemen were seriously hurt, according to Battalion Chief John Ray.

Roy said the first alarm was received at 9:20 p.m., almost immediately, a second alarm was called.

Firemen battled the blaze in the south wing of the school for 45 minutes before bringing it under full control.

Bruno Mountain Offer Dashed by Developers

Robert Follett, general manager of Visitacion Associates, Tuesday threw cold water on a proposal by Brisbane offering to put up $5 million toward purchase of San Bruno Mountain.

Brisbane had offered to preserve the mountain as open space.

Follett said no one had asked Visitacion if the so-called "saddle area" of the mountain was for sale or what the price might be to buy the 1,400-acre site.

"It isn't for sale," he said.

If it were for sale, what is the estimated value, Follett was asked.

"I've heard all sorts of figures. But it would be more than $30 million," he said.

Tuesday, Visitacion representatives discussed planned community of some 18,500 persons with news media there pointing out delays they charged to environmentalist groups over the years.

"They (the conservationists) must be doing their job," Follett said. "They are responsible for the park and open space acreage to be expanded from 300 acres to about two-thirds of the mountain property."

But Visitacion doesn't intend to retreat any further, he vowed.

Using slides and charts, Follett explained the development plan and its benefits — more The community will integrate low-cost housing with middle and higher income housing, he said.

Development cost of the new community, if it is approved by the San Mateo County Planning Commission will top $850 million, Follett said.

But even if the development squeaks by the planners, who begin hearings on the matter June 25 in Redwood City, Visitacion's officials predict the "no-growthers" will press law suits, thus delaying construction even further.

Part of the blame for the company's development woes can be placed on the media, Follett said.

He said the media has for years printed half-truths, innuendos and "outright falsehoods" about the mountain development.

Pointing to a stack of papers more than a foot high, Follett said they represented more than $1 million in studies on the mountain and the impact of new jobs (10,000 by 1990), housing, transportation (47 new cars a year over 15 years on the Bayshore) and sanitation (facilities are already built).

Council Will Pare Down DC Staff Budget Proposal

Daly City council members are expected to hack between $300,000-$400,000 from this year's preliminary operating budget that has been recommended by the city staff.

Unless the budget — now at $7,837,328 — is pared down, taxpayers can expect an estimated 14 cents per $100 of assessed valuation increase in their tax rate, a city official said.

Most councilmen have vowed to hold the line on any tax increase this year.

But the only way they can accomplish this is to hack away at several proposed items, including 12 new positions within the city.

Included in this category are three new policemen and three firemen, needed to keep pace with the city's population growth.

Overall, the budget has increased by 9.7 per cent, City Manager David Rowe said.

This does not include capital outlay projects or water department expenditures. Nor does it include any salary adjustments for employes.

The City Council is presently meeting with organized employe groups and individual employes in an effort to reach agreement on salary and fringe benefits prior to the anticipated adoption of the final budget on July 1.

Ex-Nike Site Tour Attracts Interested Agencies

By BOB PETERSON

Milagra Military Reservation? It's a site to behold.

And it was obvious Thursday afternoon that a lot of entities want a share of the lush, 220-acre former Nike site recently declared surplus by the federal government.

Representatives of nearly a dozen different groups and government agencies toured the area, which for the most part is undeveloped, except for some 20 structures, including an obsolete missle launching pad and a coastline defense bunker.

There were the expected contingents from the County Park and Recreation Department, the city of Pacifica and the schools, each contemplating the potential of the property.

And there were others, not so much expected, but nonetheless as interested in serving their cause.

Joan McKenna, for example, came from Berkeley. She has a background in physics and communications and her desire is to obtain a location for her recently-founded Human Center, Quantum Communications. This center, she explained, would establish a process of being forewarned about environmental condictions.

Ms. McKenna said she wanted to establish a clearing house to collect and disseminate "all our best information" about the environment — "to fill a gap in the whole environmental area," she said.

As an example, she said one study might be on what effects massive broadcasting confined in a small area could have on an individual. "High frequencies damage people," she said. "No one really questions existing technology. This is where most pollution comes from."

Ms. McKenna said she desired the site's missle bunker platform to set up laboratory facilities, "to create simulation." She said one experiment, assuming numerous groups get to locate at the site, would be simply a human experiment.

Then there was Leroy Looper, founder and executive director of Reality House West, Inc., a non-profit corporation that works with ex-convicts and former drug addicts.

Looper said he was seeking a base for what he called "economic development of people." What he envisions is the establishment of a training ground for these individuals to enable them to merge into the work-a-day world with confidence and a working skill.

This training, Looper said, would be accomplished in conjunction and with the aid of industry.

"A man comes home, he needs a decompression chamber," said Looper, himself a former addict and ex-convict. "But we don't want him to lay on his back. He needs decompression and to be able to make money."

Delancy Street Foundation was represented too. Spokesman Don Stratford said they had nothing specific in mind at this time; they were "feeling it out."

From Palo Alto came Lawrence Robinson, founder and principal of Renaissance School, a boarding-type school for pre-juvenile ("those beginning to get into trouble") delinquents, ages 12 to 18.

"Kids need space. Large public schools stifle them. Pent-up violence comes out in hostile ways. They need outdoor space to work it out," said Robinson.

Chandra D. Narayan, representing the religious organization he founded, Hindu Sabha of America, Inc., said he simply was looking for a location his group could gather. They presently meet in members homes, he said.

Back on the more conventional track is the North Coast County Water District. Manager Harlan "Rusty" Hill said the district has been trying to get the property for 10 years to use for 20 to 25 million gallon storage tanks.

"This is the only site around that has the right elevation for terminal storage," said Hill, pointing to the high point of a grassy knoll.

Even the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District is interested. According to the chief of air monitoring, Wayman Siu, "We need a clean air station." This station, he said, hopefully would serve as the "base line" of what would be considered the cleanest air in the Bay Area.

Siu said it would be preferable to set up a station in an existing building that was inaccessible by auto, and if things don't work out at the Nike site, the search will continue elsewhere along the coast.

According to Siu, who was reminiscing (he serviced the equipment at the site when he was in the military 20 years ago) as well as looking, said the plan is to put about $40,000 in analytical equipment at the site.

The system would be essentially the same as present facilities in Redwood City and Burlingame.

Skyline College President John Pedersen said the San Mateo Community College District was intersted in the site for technical programs and space for supportive services. He suggested that one possibility could be to use the barracks to house public safety personnel who attend the Police Academy program at College of San Mateo.

Pedersen said others interested in the site, such as the county, Pacifica and the water district, had concerns and uses that would seem to be compatible with the college district.

And therein is the next step in the continuing saga of surplus land use: What is compatible?

Mike May of the General Services Administration, who served as tour guide, suggested the City of Pacifica and the county get together and coordinate the desired uses and, if possible, reach a solution amenable to all.

May also said Congressman Leo Ryan has indicated an interest in the site as a part of the Golden Gate National Recreation Area. Some 36 acres already have been assigned to Pacifica for park and recreational purposes, which is not part of the 220 acres.

months and was preparing programs to meet their needs, she said.

Most county officials admit there is just no money available to financially assist these families.

In order to qualify for financial aid, a person has to be a resident of the county.

The burden of help, however, falls on the shoulders of those persons who sponsored the refugee in order to gain his or her release from relocation centers.

As a consequence, many Vietnamese who are already residents of the United States are feeling the financial pinch because there are no jobs avilable and more mouths to feed, officials say.

Sacramento County is now aiding 20 families, according to a report made to that county's Board of Supervisors last week. There are an estimated 150 Vietnamese families in Sacramento County.

Officials of that county are asking the federal government for reimbursement on expenditures, it was understood.

One of the biggest obstacles for refugees to overcome is their limited knowledge of the English language.

Jefferson Elementary School District Trustee Dorothy Adams said Daly City intends to place the refugee children in the district's "English as a second language" program.

"We use pictures and sit with them and just teach them English," Mrs. Adams said.

How do non-English speaking youth do in such programs?

"They do very well," Mrs. Adams said.

The Federal Intra-agency Task Force on Indochina Refugees recently reported more refugees will settle in California than in any other state.

To date there are 8,135 refugees in the state.

S. Viet General Unemployed in DC

Former South Vietnam General Lam Quang Thi has been unable to find work since he arrived in the United States more than a month ago.

The 44-year-old former commander of the garrison defending the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam, is almost broke, he said.

Accompanying Lam is his wife and two children. They are living with their sponsors — Mrs. Lisa Dang and her three children, and Mrs. Dang's mother.

Another sister of Mrs. Dang arrived with her children at the Dang's small flat over the Lee Loi Restaurant on Mission Street in Daly City over the past weekend.

Most are expected to move soon to larger accommodations, it was learned.

But General Lam has a hard time hiding his disappointment at being unable to get a job, although he smiles and says "I must have patience."

What does an unemployed lieutenant-general do?

"I would like to lecture or perhaps teach. I speak English, French and, of course, Vietnamese," Lam said.

He has been attempting to contact an old boyhood friend, former South Vietnam Premier Ky, also a general in the now-defunct Vietnam Air Force.

Ky was in the Bay Area over the past weekend visiting relatives.

He is staying in a refugee relocation center in Weimar, Calif.

Lam wants to ask his former commanding officer what is being done to help refugees in the county?

Once a powerful leader of men, responsible for thousands of lives and billions of dollars worth of equipment, Lam, the 25-year veteran of the defeated South Vietnamese army, has agreed to accept free food stamps so his family can eat.

The owner of the flat gave the refugees another jolt last week — a rent hike of $50 a month, according to Mrs. Dang.

lifespan of 25 years, renewable for 10 year periods, unless a majority of homeowners voted it out.

The period was up as of January, 1974, Hupf said.

He argued the stipulations that the homeowners had to vote the covenants out was "unreasonable" and the case fell within "the classic concept of a contract of adhesion."

Judge Cohn, citing lack of a precedent in the issue, called Hupf's arguments "novel."

Cohn, in sustaining the injunction against the Horsfalls, required a $5,000 bond be posted by the WSIA. The bond was posted Wednesday, it was learned.

Meanwhile, Hupf said he believes his position is correct in the matter and, if his client agrees, will take the matter to trial.

HUD Gives $207,000

James H. Price, director of Housing and Urban Development's (HUD) San Francisco area office, Monday presented Daly City Mayor Victor Kyriakis with a check for $207,000.

The money will be used for community development activities in Daly City under the federal government's Community Development Block Grant program.

Price, in turning over the grant, told Kyriakis the city's concerns for housing "show a lot of thought."

The grants will be on an increasing scale to the city — $207,000 in the current year; $500,000 in 1976, and $760,000 in 1977.

During the first year of the program, Daly City will use the money for:

—Expansion of the city's Community Service Center.

—Carrying out preliminary studies, site selection and planning for a multi-use center to serve residents at the top of the hill in the Mission Street area.

—Assist in the rehabilitation of 50 housing units through loan supplements and loan guarantees.

—Conduct a code enforcement program.

—Provide child care services.

Kyriakis said he was "delighted" the city was able to get the grant and vowed to "put the money to good use."

HRC Asks School Suspension Halt

The county's Human Relations Commission Thursday night recommended unanimously that all school districts throughout the county eliminate suspensions and expulsions at the beginning of the new school year.

The recommendation was one of a series that came as a result of a second annual two-day conference on campus unrest held at the Royal Coach Motor Hotel in San Mateo last month attended by some 200 people, including some 50 to 60 teenagers from throughout the county.

In a report to Mrs. Mildred Swann, chairman of the commission's education committee, Mrs. Eleanor Curry, senior field representative on the commission's staff, reported the feedback from students throughout the county was "tremendous."

As a result the commission adopted three recommendations proposed by Mrs. Curry:

• That all suspensions should be eliminated effective September, 1975.

• That school personnel throughout the county receive assistance from the commission's staff to develop alternatives to working with community workers.

• That black parents reverse a negative trend that is taking them away from school-parent participation.

The views expressed by youthful participants were:

• "Suspension would never be necessary if students had free speech.

• "Include parent, community workers and administrators at the school level.

• "One to one counseling.

• "Group discussions.

• "Make learning fun.

• "Face to face communication at the lower level.

• "Establish policies on alternatives.

• "Help students understand their behavior.

• "If a student turns himself in, punishment should be less.

• "More help with school work.

• "Stop suspensions completely.

• "Don't gather everyone around when suspending a student.

• "Suspend only for one day if harmful to others.

• "Suspend as a last result."

In a letter to Supervisor John Ward, however, Ronald Heath, a management analyst with the county manager's office, termed the conference only a "limited success."

"This was, due in part, to less than full participation from the schools in sending participants to the conference," he wrote, although he agreed, "The conference gave various police departments their first opportunity to interact with school administrators and students on an intimate basis."

James E. Forrest, executive director of the commission, warned about organizations "planting anti-commission people on the commission," and defended himself against reports to get him.

"We should smoke out these phonies," he said, although he reported, the board of supervisors "is not concerned about the commission but about the staff.

"And I admit this publicly," he said, blaming any shortcomings on "a lack of staff."

"I need the support of the commission," Forrest said, saying he had heard rumors that he has been criticized by some members of the commission.

The commissioners registered expressions of surprise on their faces.

"I have heard remarks as far as San Francisco of 'Off Jim Forrest'," he reported.

Commissioner Leonard Thomas assured him these were only rumors.

"These kind of messages come in hot and heavy," Forrest told the commission. "I'm not ready to leave until I'm ready."

After months of investigation the commission cleared the Redwood City police department of charges of racial discrimination in the theft of a purse last year at Sequoia Hospital.

The four black women questioned during the investigation were present with their union representative.

Commissioner Al Weinstein, chairman of the administration of justice committee, reported an investigator had "focused in" on the four women only as part of a process of elimination and only because they had access to the purse at the time it was taken.

He said all four were offered an opportunity to take a polygraph test, but becuse of the minor nature of the case (only $15 was stolen) and because the sheriff's office, which conducts the tests, had such a backload of work, it was never given.

According to Weinstein, 13 thefts had occurred at the hospital during the previous year, and the one before this one involved a white nurse who took the test.

Only Commissioner Herbert Harrison voted against the recommendation.

The commission agreed that Commissioner Elmon Elmore and a staff should investigate charges of racial discrimination against the San Mateo County Housing Authority after it was announced the authority has agreed to open confidential records to them alone.

County's Budget Cut $1.4 Million

Going over the San Mateo County budget closer than football coaches scrutinize their play-books, supervisors Wednesday slashed $1,444,708 in programs and projects and personnel.

Only the library and district attorney escaped relatively unharmed, as supervisors took the offensive during their nine-hour session, with only 55 minutes out for lunch.

Wednesday's action raised the amount of cuts during the eight days of budget hearings to almost $3 million, enough to effect a tax rate reduction of 14 to 15 cents. The present rate is $1.91 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The proposed 1975-76 budget was $158.9 million.

Tonight at 7:30, the supervisors will conduct a budget hearing on the parks and recreation programs and departments in their chambers at the Hall of Justice.

For most of the eight days, the board has been making cuts without much public participation or observation, contrary to what had been expected because of huge property reassessments.

Nonetheless, the public's desire for reductions appeared to be recognized by the supervisors. Wednesday's nearly $1.5 million cut in a single day was thought to be a record.

Biggest reductions came in capital improvement projects and acquisition. They totaled $1,396,600.

Among those cuts:

• $48,100 from double that amount for repair work at Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center.

• $54,000 for improvements at the Health and Welfare building in San Mateo.

• $40,000 for similar office landscaping improvements at the North County Health and Welfare office.

• $75,000 for fire building repairs in Skylonda, Pescadero and Belmont. A like amount was left.

• $150,000 for an additional maintenance building adjacent to an existing one in Belmont for storage.

• $100,000 to expand the office of weights and measures in Redwood City and improve its parking lot.

• $500,000 from the $2.2 million long-term capital projects budget.

• $32,500 of $65,000 allocated for radio relay station improvements.

• $35,000 of $85,000 for relocation of the morgue, site to be announced.

• Half of $175,000 for projects at San Carlos Airport.

Several other projects were retained by unanimous or split votes.

An attempt by Supervisor Edward J. Bacciocco to cut $854,000 appropriated for remodeling of county offices and the possible relocation of municipal courts from the old Courthouse to the Hall of Justice was defeated 3-2.

State Will Pay For Park Site

San Mateo County could apply for a maximum of $1.2 million of state fund towards land acquisition of portions of San Bruno Mountain for a park site, State Conservation and Resources Director Claire Dedrick has said.

The announcement was made Thursday night by San Mateo County Supervisor Board Chairman James V. Fitzgerald at the board's budget hearing on parks and open space.

Supervisors unanimously voted to seek a two-month extension of the state — set July 1 deadline for fund applications.

Jack T. Brook, director of parks and recreation, said that an environmental impact report must be processed before an application for aid. Hearings on the EIR are scheduled to begin next week.

Speed Reading On City Time Hit

Speed reading is giving some South San Francisco officials a headache.

Councilmen Terry Mirri and Leo Padreddii, in particular, expressed their irritation Wednesday night that five top city staff persons are taking a speed-reading course during working hours.

Mirri contended the course was not job-related and therefore should be accomplished on a staffer's own time.

Padreddii agreed. "I want employes to be at their desks," he said.

The course, at a cost of $25 per person, is a four-week session, one day a week for three hours. Taking the class are City Manager Ed Alario, his assistant Mike Wilson, Parks and Recreation Director Dick Milkovich, Director of Public Services Frank Addiego and Director of Administrative Services Stan Bara.

According to Alario, , the course is sponsored by a non-profit organization called Intergovernmental Training and is specifically designed for city, state and federal governmental officials. Two others from San Mateo County attending the Oakland sessions are Richard Sims, Daly City assistant police chief, and Daly City Police Sgt. John Kolbmann.

The subject came up as the council discussed proposed guidelines for attendance at conferences and conventions. Mirri said he had some suggestions he would like to incorporate into the proposed guidelines.

Resident Fernando Teglia of 378 Altamont Drive said all decisions on attendance should be made by the council, not by the city manager, who authorized the speed reading course.

And then Mirri zeroed in on the speed-reading class.

"I'm not demeaning speed-reading," said Mirri. "I only think when someone makes (in the $20,000 range) plus benefits, he has a responsibility to educate himself on what I call general education.

"There has to be some limitation (on number and types of classes attended)," said Mirri. "If it were job affiliated and we approached it with discretion, I could appreciate it and consent.

"I honestly believe (various types of classes attended) are being abused. It's the council's fault and I take my share of the responsibility for it. We've been too lenient, and have taken too much for granted."

Both Mayor Richard Battaglia and Councilman Frank Mammini defended the courses as job-related and a necessary tool in aiding the staff in going through the voluminous materials they must read.

They also said the staffers don't work a straight eight-hour day, rather they're often in before 8 a.m. and work past 6 p.m. and often on weekends.

Padreddii contended the "extra time was their job and their responsibility. It's expected if they want to keep their job," he said. "We've had blinders on. We find out too late too much of this is going on. There's not one staff member who needs speed-reading," said Padreddii.

Mammini called Mirri and Padreddii's thoughts on the issue "retrogression." He said the various schools and courses attended is the only means of keeping up to date on what is happening.

"We're growing. We need to know what's happening around us," said Mammini. He said by not attempting to find out is "having blinders on."

Mammini said the staff "probably makes less than a skilled electrician in terms of hours put in. Anything that benefits this city, the council should go along with," he said.

Mayor Battaglia said, "You can't treat shabbily and take them to task for something like this. They are not 40-hour a week employes. Anyone in a management position with reams of papers to go through daily needs this course."

He conceded that maybe Mirri is correct in saying the council has been lenient and taking much for granted. "But when you have a hangnail you don't amputate your arm," he said.

Carpenter Pact Set?

A tentative agreement on a two-year-contract has been reached between Northern California contractors and the Carpenters Union, it is reported.

According to reported terms, the package includes total increases of 18.6 per cent in wages and benefits with wages going up 70 cents per hour immediately, another 30 cents next January, and $1.10 per hour (to $12.10), June 16, 1976.

Students Need Area Homes

Temporary host homes for some 65 foreign students are still needed, according to George Lynch, area coordinator of Interstudy International Study Tours.

Interstudy is a program of educational and cultural exchange wherein host families provide room and board to foreign students who attend classes and participate in various tours during a four-week stay.

According to Lynch, who can be contacted by calling 495-5696 or 873-2894, the students, Japanese and French, will be arriving at the end of July.

Lynch said he wants host homes lined up before their arrival. "It's an excellent way for you to be introduced to a foreign culture, as the students will want to share their own cultural background," said Lynch.

Yoga Course

A six-week Yoga course will be held in Pacifica starting July 8 at Oddstad Park. The classes will be conducted from 6 to 7:30 p.m. The fee is $5.

Those interested may contact the Pacifica Parks, Beaches Recreation Dept. at 170 Santa Maria Ave., Pacifica. The class is limited to 25 people. Those attending classes must wear loose clothing.

Toastmasters Hold Debate On Justice for Juveniles

The Daly City Toastmasters Club was the scene of a stimulating debate June 4 between the teams of Daly City Police Chief David Hansen and Sgt. Tom Reese, and Lt. Tom Cully and San Francisco Supervisor Quentin Kopp.

Toastmaster Doug Stevens moderated.

Chief Hansen and Sgt. Reese prevailed in their arguments in favor of dealing with juvenile felony offenders as adults rather than as juveniles.

Both teams presented strong arguments for their sides of the issue pointing out many of the failures or miscues of the judicial system as it now deals with offenders and offering suggestions for improving the system.

The argument that young people who commit violent or sophisticated crimes should be classed as adults in keeping with their proven criminal intent, was the most convincing.

The police officers are all members of the Daly City Toastmasters Club, which meets every Wednesday at 7 a.m. in the Westlake Library.

Kopp graciously agreed to participate in this debate.

He is noted for his ability in the courtroom and in the chambers of City Hall in San Francisco.

He served to add a great deal of vitality to the program.

The Daly City Police Department has sponsored many officers in membership in the Toastmasters in the past few years.

The program is designed to assist persons who are engaged in public contact work or who aspire to public speaking opportunities to polish their skills.

DC Democratic Club to Meet

The Daly City-Colma Democratic Club will meet 7:30 p.m. June 26 at the Jefferson Elementary School District board room, 101 Lincoln Way.

The club has invited a representative of the Daly City Recreation Department, Katherine Bradshaw, to talk about summer programs in the city.

Coffee and refreshments will be served.

GIRL SCOUTING

PHOTOS now are being collected for a bicentennial display of Girl Scouting as a major section of Scout America '76, scheduled for Apil 3 and 4, 1976, according to general chairman Alvin L. (Al) Schwarzbach.

Black and white or color, all sizes, with descriptions on a separate piece of paper noting the owner's name and address and if wished returned, should be sent to 43 Castillejo Drive, Daly City, 94015, marked "photos."

Any photo of any Northern San Mateo County or San Francisco County Girl Scout troop or event within the last 63 years will be accepted for the series of collages which will decorate the Serramonte Shopping Center fountain area during the two day show in 1976.

ICE SKATING was on the agenda for Daniel Webster's Junior Girl Scout troop recently as Tracy Hall, Cincy Bonomi, Kristy Beckman, Nicole Giannoulis, Diane Christen, Donna Giammona, Denise Holland, Suzanne Hurtado, Stacy Karakazis, Lisa Roche, Linda Running, Laura and Linda Thompson and Janet Walters were accompanied by troop leader Mrs. Margaret Holland, and co-leader Mrs. Betty Andrews.

PROMOTED

Promoted to sergeant in the U.S. Air Force is Victor C. Presler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted A. Presler of 612 Larchmont, Daly City.

FIFTEEN Junior Girl Scout troops currently are listed by the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council within the Daly City-Colma area according to field staff Janice Pettey and Pam Von Wiegand.

Every Item a 'Steal' at a Garage Sale

By RO LOGRIPPO
Times Staff Writer

Know anyone who'd pay 40 cents for half a jar of instant coffee?

Or $6 for three-quarters of a 10-speed bike?

How about $4 for a used bowling ball with someone else's name on it?

Well, you may not know anyone, but there are people out there that would — and did at one installment of that great American pastime — the garage sale.

Those items and plenty of others were recycled this past month in San Mateo County. They came from eight homes, and the pack rats that parted with their goods for the event gathered the night before to price the booty and place it on tables for customer perusal.

"What do you think this foot-shaped ashtray from the Phillipines will bring?" asked one newcomer to the garage sale scene.

"Ask a dollar," volunteered her friend, "but be prepared to accept 50 cents."

"You're NOT going to try and sell that can of cranberry sauce," one woman asked her neighbor incredulously.

"Don't be surprised if I do," she retorted. "I got rid of a half a bottle of Milk of Magnesia at my last sale."

"How about this plastic arrangement I found in my storage closet," queried another. "Do you think it will sell?"

Put it in the quarter box and hope for the best," said the woman sitting next to her. "You never know what people will buy."

There was truth to her statement.

An hour before the 9 a.m. starting time, the prospective buyers began to converge on the area. Oblivious to the pleas of "could you wait 'till we're ready," the early arrivers sorted through the paraphernalia with gay abandon.

Among the initial customers was a woman who eyeballed the plastic flower arrangement with delight. She nudged her companion, whispered in her ear, and reached for her wallet to part with funds to purchase the decoration.

The sale was under way.

Five suit hangars . . . a box of pecan frosting . . . a camera case . . . two homemade sand candles . . . a kitchen sink . . . and a large suitcase — all were among the first items to leave the garage.

Before the first hour had passed, a page had been filled with a list of sold goods that brought in $32 for the till.

By noon, the dickering had begun.

"This white metal fencing is marked at $3; will you you take $2.50?" said one bargain hunter.

"How about $2.75?" the owner pleaded.

"How about $2.50?" the hunter repeated.

"Sold," said the owner, only minutes before a former customer returned to purchase the same fencing for the original price asked.

Thanks to a middle aged couple, the clothes rack started to dwindle in size by late morning, when they spotted a pair of slacks marked at $7.50.

"Would you consider taking $5 for these," the man offered. "I don't know if they'll fit."

"You can try them on in the spare room," the owner said, "but the $7.50 price is firm; the slacks are in mint condition."

It was a major victory for the owner — and a big boost for the till — when he emerged with money in one hand and wife in the other to report the slacks were a perfect fit.

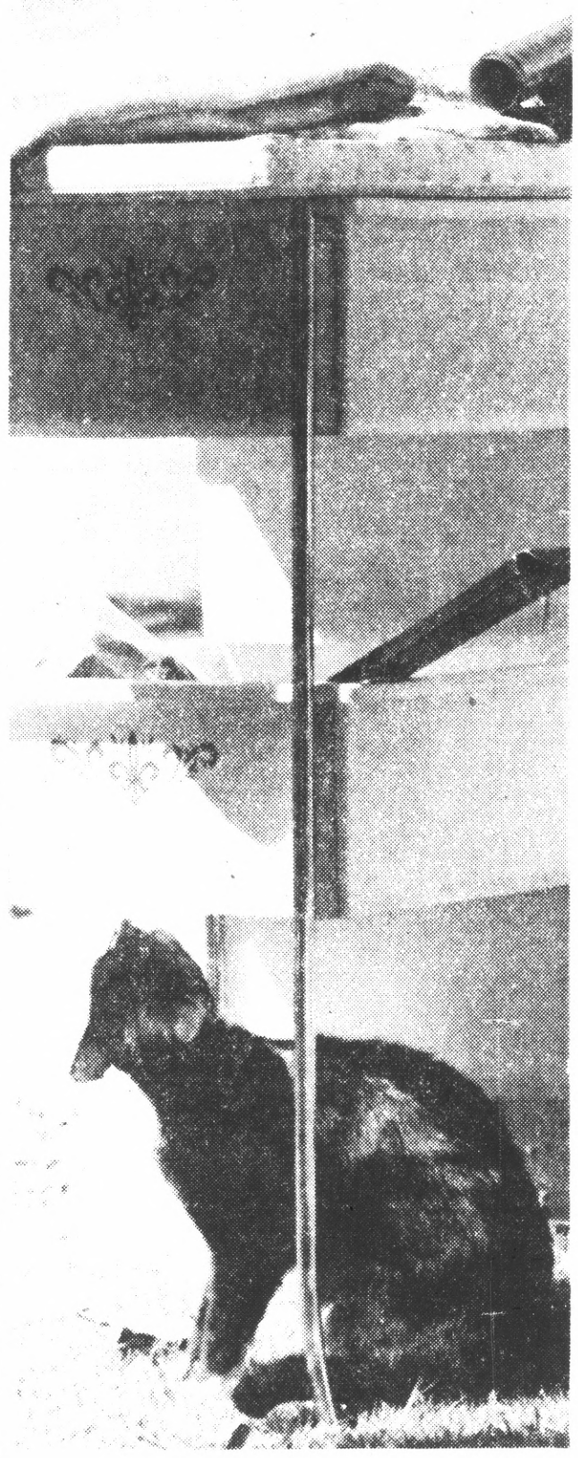
Hope of selling many more clothes from the rack diminished soon thereafter, however, when a friend of one of the sale givers arrived on the scene with additional garments.

"Want me to add these to your collection," she said lifting designer slacks, sweaters and dresses from the car.

"Are you serious?" her friend queried. "That stuff is practically brand new. It looks like it just came from the cleaners! If we hang all of those on the rack, our clothes will never sell."

Not long after the words were exchanged, the more stylish garb began to go. A parka, two pantsuits and a skirt vanished within minutes.

"Ah well," sighed the owner of some of the tattered apparel," I guess I can always give these wearables to Goodwill if they don't get purchased. At least I'll have a tax deduction to show for them," she added to soothe herself.



A new contribution was added to the sale at the halfway point when a husband noted the profits and decided to part with something he'd been squirreling for years — three-quarters of a bicycle.

"You'll never sell that in a million years," his wife snickered. "Who could possibly want one tire, a bike seat and handlebars?"

"Those parts are worth at least $10, "her mate exclaimed. "Don't take anything less for it."

By mid-afternoon, the bike's first serious spectator began examining it.

"How much are you asking for this," the browser questioned.

"What's $10 sound like?" the husband stammered.

"What's $4 sound like?" the potential buyer countered.

"It's worth at least $8," the husband pleaded.

"I'll give you $6 if you throw in the tire pump over there," said the bargain seeker.

"It's yours for $6," the husband conceded. "but the pump isn't included."

"Okay," said the buyer, "you've got yourself a deal."

More than two-thirds of the items in the garage had been cleared by the 4 p.m. closing time when the recyclers started to package their unsold goods. The last box was being toted away when a car pulled up to canvas the site.

"Looking for anything special?" someone asked.

"My sister told me you had a wine rack here I might be interested in," said the onlooker.

"It's in the trunk," the owner told her husband, who winced while unloading the treasure from the bottom of the heap.

"I'll take it," the wine rack seeker said. "It's just what I want."

As the last customer drove off, the woman who had made the final sale of the day turned to her neighbor. "You just never know what people will buy," she mused. "I can't believe that can of cranberry sauce was left untouched."

MEDICAL CENTER

The St. Francis Medical Building under construction in Daly City features a 1,500 square foot combination courtyard-waiting area for patients. The building, depicted in an artist's sketch, was designed by John Powers Associates.

Med Center Construction Begins

"We want to remove people from the typically antiseptic atmosphere of the ordinary doctor's office and place them in more pleasant, open and appealing surroundings," said San Francisco Ophthalmologists Jerrold C. Bocci and Robert J. Keefe when commenting on the St. Francis Medical Building, which they commissioned for construction here.

Currently underway, the building is a totally new architectural and environmental concept in private health care facilities and will cover more than 8,000 square feet.

It was designed by the San Francisco architectural and planning firm, John Powers Associates, and is being built by Joseph Ragni and Son of Daly City.

The most unique feature of the St. Francis is the centrally located 1,500 square foot combination courtyard and waiting room.

This area, surrounded by five doctor's suites, has been developed for patient comfort and relaxation and also provides environmental savings by bringing the outdoors inside.

Three clear stories or skylights, built into the high redwood ceiling, face north to insulate solar heat buildup and create a dialogue between hanging plants and trees, brightly colored furniture, deep red carpets and a large sculptured fountain.

In contrast the the usual concrete and stucco office building veneers of Daly City, this new facility is being built of all natural materials.

Bronze glass windows blend with vertical redwood boards lining the external walls.

Contoured earth landscaped with shrubs, trees and ground cover conceals a 24-car garage one-half level below the building.

"A building such as this would seem to be more expensive than the tradition

NELL NORTON

Bicentennial Beef Recipe

Good morning, good cooks.

Beef stew is a great favorite in most families and when we top the stew with a rich crust and bake it to a golden brown it becomes every more delicious and eye appealing.

COLONIAL BEEF PIE

2 lbs. lean beef stew meat
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon ginger
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons oil or drippings
1 can consomme (10½ oz.)
½ cup sauterne wine or water
4 carrots
3 stalks celery
12 small white onions

Cut the two pounds beef into generous chunks. Combine the teaspoon each garlic salt and paprika with the one-fourth teaspoon ginger and two tablespoons flour. Sprinkle over beef and mix until well dredged. Brown the meat in the two tablespoons hot oil. Add the can of consomme, any remaining seasoned flour, and the one-half cup wine (or water), cover and simmer for 45 minutes.

Pare and slice the four carrots, slice the three stalks celery into large pieces; peel the onions. Parboil the vegetables about 5 minutes. Add the drained vegetables to the meat, cover and simmer until meat and vegetables are almost tender.

Turn into 10 x 16-inch oblong dish. Cover with pastry; seal edges to edge of dish; prick top crust. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) until browned — about 25 minutes.

COLONIAL PASTRY

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon rosemary
½ teaspoon thyme
½ cup shortening
3 or 4 tablespoons cold milk or water

Sift together the one and one-half cups flour, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon rosemary, one-half teaspoon thyme. Cut in the half cup shortening. Add the 3 or 4 tablespoons liquid, mixing into a stiff dough. Roll out on a floured board to fit the top of baking dish. Serves 6.

School Board Votes Hikes

The eight top administrators of the San Mateo County School Department Wednesday night received 5 per cent pay boosts.

The County Board of Education also granted a pay package averaging about a 7.3 per cent increase for 224 certificated positions.

Of those, 132 will receive an extra $100 annually for holding a masters of doctors degree.

The pay package totals $305,044, according to Asst. Supt. Myron Schussman.

Also Wednesday night, the board considered a pay package for 258 of the 300 classified employes averaging about 8.6 per cent. The boost for 42 others is 5.7 per cent. The board deferred action.

The Pacifica Spindrift Players will present their premier performance of Muriel Resnick's play, "Any Wednesday" on June 27 in the Oddstad Center, 1050 Crespi Drive in Pacifica.

The story, for those of you who never had the opportunity to enjoy this comedy of manners, concerns a most desirable young miss who gives her Wednesdays to John, a ruthless tycoon; and young Cass, a struggling young businessman, who stumbles into the tycoon's love nest. To thicken the plot, John's wife arrives on the scene, puts two and two together and comes up with five! The result is hilarious!

Appearing in the play will be Kathy McIntyre, Marj Heise, Rob Ingram and Gordan Sheridan.

There will be six performances, the first two on this Friday and Saturday and the remaining four performances will be on July 4 and 5 and 11 and 12. Tickets will be sold at the door for $2. High school students will be admitted for $1.25 and children's tickets are 75 cents. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

EACH SPRING the Mary's Help Hospital Guild accepts applications for Educational Assistance funds for Health Careers from employes of the hospital or their families, volunteers and their families and the families of Medical-Dental staff members. The applications are carefully screened and several awards are made each summer.

While many members of the community are aware of the scholarships, few are aware of what methods are used to finance the project. The important thing about the method of financing is that everyone in this area can help!

The fund was started as a memorial to Father Francis Wajda who was the hospital chaplain for many, many years.

To finance the memorial several methods of fund raising have been employed. Monies from Consumer Research Jobs, Spencer Research and Bonus Gift Coupons snipped from packages all of us can find on our shelves at home, are channeled into the scholarship fund.

Mrs. Toni Michels, who is in charge of the coupons and research project notes that this year the fund is low and could really stand a healthy "transfusion" from donors in the community. If you find Bonus Gift coupons on packages in your home, clip them and save them along with the labels from Swifts Corned Beef Brisket, or Swifts Hostess Ham or Circle Ham, and the front anels from Lee Crumb Cakes or Pillsbury's Turnover Pies and when you have collected several, drop them off in the Gift Shop in the lobby of Mary's Help Hospital. Your contributions will help someone further a career in the health field.

HAVE YOUR CHILDREN outgrown some of their story books? Children's books are among the items being sought for the Friends of the Daly City Library Book Fair.

With the spring fair just completed it seems strange to begin seeking books so soon but Book Fair chairwoman Mrs. Denise Schwarzbach and her committee members are reviewing the May fair and attempting to start early gathering together the types of books that appear to have been in the greatest demand. Children's books and "how-to" books appear to have been runaway best sellers so the supply of books in those categories will be greatly increased for the next fair.

The 'Unmelted' American Indian'

Once on a dusty back country road in Wyoming an august professor from an eastern university learned something about the United States that few Americans are willing to accept. At dusk when he and his family were miles from anyone who could help him, the generator on his car conked out leaving him with the horrible knowledge that the family would have to spend the night in the over-packed automobile.

Suddenly they were confronted by a motorized cowboy, with his finger on the trigger of a pistol, with a shotgun near his other hand and with a can of mace on the seat of his vehicle. It seems they were stopped on his land, and he was determined to protect his rights. Like too many Americans, the cowboy was thinking only of his own rights, only of his own well being and not the rights and problems of the discomforted professor and his family.

In America we are so individualistic we reserve the right to win justice for ourserves and leave to every person the same right. If he is successful we call him great, if he is hurt in the process that's too bad for him. This is what Professor Frederic W. Turner III came to realize in Wyoming on that dark night.

Days later when the professor sat down to edit the manuscript of his "North American Indian Reader," he learned that the lesson the cowboy had taught him made him understand, more than ever before, the problems that face the minorities of America. The anglo type of American does not mean to be unjust, but he is too self centered and too filled with his desires to let the good of society fill a paramount place in his thinking.

This characteristic led Americans to displace the whole Indian race and even today allows the government to follow "an Indian policy that alternates between brutal neglect and racist paternalism." It allows Americans to still rape the natives' remaining natural resources and in its broadest levels to rape each other in the never ending drive of individualism.

YET THE PRESENCE of the "unmelted" Indian in the American melting pot should tell the people of our country that they are facing a future wherein minority groups will not become integrated as the "white faced" groups have done in the past. It should, writes Professor Turner, teach Americans that the only way to obtain racial peace is through understanding the cultural heritage of the minority groups and from this understanding accept the existence of the insoluble minority as part of the "American scene."

With this in mind, one finds Professor Turner's "The Portable North American Indian Reader" a chest full of good reading. Here are the words of poets, orators and story tellers who learned the lessons of their lives from nature with its animals and hills and rivers. As one reads the various pieces, he senses the fierce pride of the American Indian that made him unruly when the whitemen of Mexico tried to enslave him, and when the whitemen of the United States tried to confine him to areas called reservations.

Repertory Theater Group in Pacifica

On July 5th and 6th at the Sharp Park Library in Pacifica, two cultural events have been slated for simultaneous viewing by the public.

The central event is four performances of William Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," presented by North County repertory theater group, the Southgate Theater Company.

This will represent the opening of Southgate's second performing season on the Peninsula, and its first summer in Pacifica.

Comprised of local actors and actresses, the Southgate Theater Company is an exciting, young theater company interested in giving North County residents greater exposure to live, quality theater.

Last summer, the group entertained hundreds of Daly City residents with its successful productions of "The Lion in Winter" and "the Importance of Being Earnest."

Moving to Pacifica for its 1975 season, the group has scheduled the upcoming performances of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," to be followed by three performances of Tennessee William's "The Glass Menagerie."

The Perwinkle Art Gallery in Pedro Point also has scheduled a small showing of privately owned prints.

Times of performances for the Shakespearian comedy are July 5 at 5 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. and July 6 at 2 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children.

Airport Allows Free Handicapped Parking

The San Francisco Airports Commission today approved a policy of providing up to 72 hours of free courtesy parking for handicapped motorists at San Francisco International Airport, Airports Commission President William E. McDonnell has announced.

"The need for this courtesy parking program for handicapped persons was recognized by Airports Commissioner William H. Chester, and it is in keeping with the general airport policy of providing facilities to ensure the comfort and convenience of persons in wheelchairs," McDonnell said.

The special parking area is located between the south and central passenger terminals. Holders of special license plates issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles to identify handicapped drivers under section 22511.5 of the California Vehicle Code will be permitted 72 hours of parking without charge.

"San Francisco Airport's parking facilities are presently designed to accommodate persons in wheelchairs without any inconvenience to the handicapped," McDonnell said. "In addition, ramped curbs have been installed at terminal entrances and special oversize restroom facilities with handrails are being installed in the terminals.

IT'S YOUR MONEY

Q. I just got my social security card. It's attached to a bigger, perforated card. Do I have to keep both cards?

A. A social security card is issued with two parts. The smaller social security card should be detached and carried in your purse or wallet so you can show it to your employer. The larger part should be kept in a safe place as a permanent record of your social security number. Then, if you ever lose your card, you'll have the part with your number on it and will be able to get a duplicate card faster.

Bike Laws Pamphlet Available

With summertime here and more people enjoying biking in the outdoors, Assemblyman Louis J. Papan, Democrat-San Mateo, has available free copies of the new state publication "Bicycle Rules of the Road."

Included in this pamphlet are the laws that affect bicycle riders according to the California Vehicle Code.

"Last year, Californians bought more bicycles than cars," Papan said. "All over the state, local governments have begun mapping out bike trails to accommodate the increased use. But for the most part, bikes still have to share the roadways with cars."

Papan also noted that the popularity of bike riding has increased rapidly, both as a form of transportation and as enjoyable recreation.

"But to be a safe cyclist, you must know the laws written to protect you and others," Papan said. "And that is why it is important that everyone has a copy of this pamphlet."

Persons wishing to obtain a copy of "Bicycle Rules of the Road" can call Papan's office, 756-6400.

Soroptimists Set Service Projects

President Marian Suhr will preside at the last meeting of the year for the Soroptimist International of Millbrae-San Bruno at the Millbrae-Community United Methodist Church.

She will call for the committee reports.

Mrs. Millie Rimmer, community service chairwoman, will report that the club has spent more than $1,000 during the year on service projects.

Scholarships are given through the San Mateo Community College Foundation to college students and a citizenship award was given to a high school senior.

The club sponsored girl's volleyball instruction for Millbrae and had a joint meeting with the Rotary Club of Millbrae to acquaint both clubs with the Peninsula Medical Center Family Counseling service.

As a result of the meeting, Peninsula Hospital Parent Communiation Center benefited from a cash donation.

Dental service for children has been provided through Our Lady of Guadalupe Health Center and money was given for the "Love Project" of the San Bruno Library, which provided gifts for shut-ins.

Peninsula Halfway House received a month's payment on the house and the club took a membership in the corporation.

A sustaining membership in the Boy Scouts of America also was taken.

The Children's Receiving Home of San Mateo County benefited from the service fund with money for Christmas gifts for the young people

Money also was sent to the Soroptimist Foundation Endowment Fund which has a goal of $1 million this year.

Families Set Luncheon for Beth Israel

A Siyum Latorah luncheon sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Ezra M. Battat, Mr. and Mrs. Wiegfried Kochman, Miss Rahe Levitt, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Pincus, Mrs. Melanie Pollock, Miss Martha Silberstein and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Zealand will be held June 28 at the Temple Beth Israel Judea in Daly City.

On this Shabbat morning, the temple will be completing a section of the Torah.

Safety Improvements for Toll Bridges

A toll bridge safety improvement program got underway recently as the California Toll Bridge Authority (CTBA) approved $7.5 million of projects for the San Francisco - Oakland Bay Bridge, the San Mateo - Hayward and Dumbarton bridges.

Under one of the approved projects the upper deck of the Bay Bridge will be coated with a highly skid resistant epoxy asphalt. The project, to be financed with $3,300,000 of toll revenue, is expected to begin in the spring of 1976.

Three other contracts, totalling $2.7 million, involve earthquake restrainers on the Bay Bridge and the San Mateo - Hayward bridge.

Work on restrainers at the truss and girder spans along the incline of the Bay Bridge currently is underway.

Two additional contracts, on the San Francisco approach and the West Grand Avenue Viaduct, will start later in 1975.

The restrainer work at San Mateo - Hayward will begin by early 1976.

A number of the contracts involve safety improvements for toll bridge personnel in compliance with the 1971 Occupational Safety and Health Act Regulations (OSHA).

A continuing program for better safety standards has been underway since these regulations went into effect, with much of the minor work done by state maintenance personnel.

Improved ladders and scaffolding will be installed at the Bay Bridge and the San Mateo - Hayward Bridge will get better tower and deck access on the structure and a new ventilation system and vehicle crash cushions at the toll booths.

The work will be awarded to private contractors through standard bidding procedures.

Similar projects are planned for all state-owned toll bridges, with the full OSHA compliance contracts estimated at more than $7 million.

They are scheduled to continue through the next three years and then there will be continuing checks within the organization to assure that adequate safety standards are continuously being met.

Brazilian Visiting San Bruno Naval Command

LCDR Ivan Prado, member of the Brazilian Navy, has been at the Western Division, Naval Facilities Engineering Command in San Bruno, to secure ideas for his challenges in assisting the Brazilian Navy as it updates its shore facilities and naval bases.

The Brazilian Navy recently completed an extensive ship acquisition program.

Deliveries of the ships now are being made, so attention is being focused on improving and expanding the shore facilities to support the enlarged fleet.

LCDR Prado's position places him in the acquisition and planning phases of duties, so his four weeks of on-the-job training at San Bruno included the procedures used and the tasks performed within the acquisition and planning departments at the Western Division.

The Brazilian officer also was interested in the role of the civil engineer in the naval facilities organization and was highly impressed by the multiple roles assigned to the Western Division engineers.

Prior to reporting to San Bruno, LCDR Prado was enrolled at the Civil Engineer Corps Officers School, Port Hueneme, where he completed the 4-week basic course for Civil Engineer Corps officers.

Although LCDR Prado's wife, Antonieta, daughter Priscilla (7 years) and son Rodrigo (4 years) remained in Brazil while he was stateside for training, the officer maintains that his separation from home and family was made easier by the friendliness of the people he encountered during his visit to the United States.

CHURCH BENEFITS

Several organizations recently presented the proceeds from their fund raising activities to Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church in Daly City. Shown are The Rev. John Mullen, pastor of Our Lady in Daly City; Mrs. Tina Dell'Olio, chairwoman of the Italian dinner dance; Mrs. Jo Hettel, chairwoman of the garage sale of the church mothers club; and Marcelino Enriquez, president of the Filipino-American Association of San Mateo County.

GETTING THE GAVEL

At the recent Daly City Rotary Club installation banquet, outgoing president Floyd Gonella (right) handed over the gavel and his duties to Al Vial, incoming president. A club service project now in progress in the Rotary Club fireworks sale in Westlake Shopping Center. Profits benefit charities, college scholarships at local high schools, three Boy Scout units of the Rotary, the local Junior Achievement Club and other charities.

Under the direction of Donald Schneider, pianist, composer and instructor, and Elwood Madeo, jazz guitarist and instructor, the groups will explore popular literature in the area of jazz and jazz rock and will experiment with current techniques and styles.

The ensembles are limited to six students each who have intermediate to advanced skills on an instrument.

Also offered on the college and adult level are a guitar performance ensemble and a voice performance ensemble.

Each class will include instruction by a teacher, laboratory time for group practice and a performance in the community at the end of the six-week session.

All this will be offered to the students of Mrs. Jeane Dunshee, experienced decorator and display artist, in her new 6-weeks summer series of furniture and accessory refinishing at the Coolidge Community Center, 1400 Paloma Ave., Burlingame.

The class is sponsored by the Burlingame Recreation Department and will be offered Friday afternoons from 1-4 p.m. beginning June 27.

Locals Top Scout Salesmen

Two local youths won top prizes in the recent San Mateo County Council Boy Scouts of America's Scout-O-Rama.

Cub David O'Farrell and Scout Scott Barton were presented with their television sets and recognized as top ticket salesmen in the council.

O'Farrell sold 135 tickets to top the Cub ranks and Scott Barton sold 360 tickets.

The television sets were awarded at the Council Scouting Center, 1300 South Amphlett Blvd. in San Mateo.

Cub Scout David O'Farrell is a student at Allen School in San Bruno where he lives with his parents, Dan and Jacqueline Blondell.

He is a member of Pack 72, sponsored by the Community Methodist Church at 560 El Camino Real in San Bruno, John Cole, Cubmaster.

David has been in cubbing for two years and has won prizes for ticket selling before. He sold 80 tickets to "Scouting's Circus World" last fall. His prizes this time included pocket telescopes, pocket knives, a walkie talkie set and an electronic pocket calculator.

Scout Scott Barton, a student at Taylor School, is in the seventh grade and lives in Millbrae with his parents, Bill and Irma Barton. He is a member of Troop 20, sponsored by the Millbrae Community Methodist Church, John Meyer, scoutmaster.

When asked where he sold the 360 tickets, Scott replied, "All over, house to house, in shopping centers, and in front of the Millbrae Safeway and QFI stores."

In answer to how he sold so many tickets, he said, "Don't take no for an answer. Keep explaining why you are selling tickets to Scout-O-Rama and then they'll buy the tickets."

Scott set a goal of 20 tickets a day and did it for 18 days straight. He won so many prizes that he gave them to his family and to the scouts in the Spirit of '76 Patrol, of which he is a member.

He even cleaned up a place in his room for his new TV set when he was notified that he was the scout winner. When asked if he had any help selling the tickets, he answered, "Nope. Sold them all myself."

Nearly 16,000 people attended the show held this year on May 30-31.

In Rehearsal
Students at Garden Vill School in Daly City recently performed scenes from "The Wizard of Oz."

Homeowners Elect New Officers

Officers and directors of the Portola Highlands Homeowner's Association of San Bruno have been installed for 1975-'76.

They are Otis L. Spencer, president; C. Dennis Morgan, vice president; Carl Hirsch, treasurer; Harold West, recording secretary; Richard Johnsen, park and recreation; Eileen Breedlove, social; Wilbur Fleming, membership; Mary Hauscarriague, membership; Richard Wooldridge, improvements planning; Shirley Spencer, historian; Elmer C. Butler Jr., public relations.

Regular members of the association that have agreed to serve on committees are Marie Morgan, corresponding secretary; Judy and Peter Beltrano, park and recreation; Dan Casentini, traffic safety; Dennis Cartwright, schools.

All residents of Portola Highlands are encouraged to give the association the ideas, opinions and knowledge and to participate on a committee of individual interest to help increase the vitality and livability of our community.

The president shall create committees as needs and interest dictate.

The board of directors have conferred honorary membership in the association for several persons in recognition of their efforts with association policy:

Cited were Mrs. Ellie Larsen, for her critique of the CalTrans DEIS for the 380 Freeway extension; and John Barnard and Richard Griffith, San Bruno councilmen, for their motion and second (respectively) for the city to officially go on record as opposing the extension of the 380 Freeway west of the 280 Freeway. The motion carried 4-1-0.

In recognition of the petition signatures obtained by Mr. and Mrs. Beltrano, which support a proposal to construct a 1,000 square feet recreational building within Portola Park, the board of directors of the association have agreed to work closely with these residents, the parks and recreation commission and the park department to help determine the requirements for the proposed facility based on the potential needs of our community.

Input to the association from all residents of Portola Highlands is requested.

Comments should be forwarded to P.O. Box 1551, San Bruno.

Serra High Receives 5-Year Accreditation

Serra High School in San Mateo, a 30-year-old college preparatory school for young men from the Peninsula, has received a five-year accreditation from the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

An evaluation of the school was done by a WASC visiting committee in April, following a self-study by faculty and staff.

Commendations and recommendations are sent to high schools undergoing evaluation, with accreditation granted for three or five years by the Accrediting Commission for Secondary Schools.

Among the major commendations was one citing the professional staff for "evident interest and concern" for the students, the parents for their "generous support of the school," and the students for their "warm and friendly attitude."

Among its recommendations, the committee asked that the school review its philosophy with views from parents, students and staff, that department chairmen assume an active role in curriculum development and that staff educational inservice programs be instituted.

Serra High School is operated by the Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco.

Dream Girl Pageant Judges Panel Selected

Having the pleasant, but difficult, task of selecting the 1975 San Mateo County Dream Girl will be five noted Bay Area personalities.

The panel of judges for the 23rd annual Dream Girl Pageant include Jerry Bundeson of the San Francisco Chronicle, Herb Caen's aide; Miss Lorraine of Miss Lorraine's Modeling School and Agency, Los Altos; R. C. Owens, former all-pro end for the San Francisco 49ers; Monique Benoit, free lance writer and beauty consultant; and Reno Barsocchini, San Francisco restaurateur and civic leader.

The Pageant will be held June 27 at the fairgrounds.

Fourteen girls will be competing for the title and one will be chosen to reign as Dream Girl during the Fair and Floral Fiesta, July 28-Aug. 9.

The judges personally interview each of the girls before the pageant and in addition each contestant must model a swimsuit and an evening gown during the invitation-only affair.

Selection of the winner is based on 80 per cent beauty of face and figure, 10 per cent on poise, and 10 per cent on personality.

The new Dream Girl will represent San Mateo County in the Cal-Expo State Fair Maid of California Pageant in Sacramento, Aug. 22.

Bert Cole—A Professional rarity!

Bert Cole, the former big league pitcher who for many years lived in Burlingame and who recently died there, was a rarity — a professional athlete who was truly modest and humble.

Cole was a fine Pacific Coast League pitcher (120 wins in 12 seasons with Seattle, Sacramento, Portland, the Seals and the Missions, for whom he won 29 games in 1926), and lasted six years in the majors during an era when a cup of coffee in the bigs was an honor and the PCL, if not quite a third major league, always produced three or four teams that were better than the worst three or four teams in the majors.

In 1920, the native born San Francisco southpaw was traded by Charley Graham, the shrewd Seals owner at the time, to Detroit for an entire team — nine men! As far as can be determined, that is still an all-time baseball record. And in his major league debut Cole beat Walter Johnson.

So who would Cole talk about when he talked base ball? What would he talk about? He would talk about other players and what They did, and he was most proud not of what he accomplished as a player during his career, but of having played for Ty Cobb, when Cobb was managing the Tigers, and of "having the opportunity" to pitch to Babe Ruth. His greatest accomplishment in "the game," he used to chuckle, was that he was one of the few players in baseball who could "get along" with Cobb.

Nobody, not even Cobb, could have helped doing anything but get along with Cole, because he was a genuinely talented man who was also a good man.

uf27MISCELLANY: Remember when Pittsburgh was all hit, no pitch? Now, despite an improvement in offense lately, they are among the lower echelon of run producers in the NL (even the Giants score more often than they do), but have one of the best team ERA's in baseball . . . Have you noticed, too, that since Richie Allen's return the Phillies have been just about a .500 club, after having compiled a hot streak just before he arrived? It's ironic that when the Dodgers were having all those injuries the Giants lost ground on them, and that now, with the Dodgers relatively healthy and the Giants injury-riddled, the Giants have gained ground on the Dodgers.

Some people have made a big deal — and rightly so — over the fact that Chris Speier has been running about sixth-seventh in all-star voting among shortstops while two of the biggest vote getters — Bill Russell and Larry Bowa — currently are on the disabled list. But an even greater injustice is being done to Houston's Roger Metzger, a great fielder who is having his best hitting year, yet who at last count had only about 200 votes, dead last in the NL . . . But even more ludicrous is the voting for catchers in the AL. Thurmond Munson is leading, as he should be, but the second best vote getter is Oakland's second string catcher, Ray Fosse, who at this writing had collected two hits and was batting below .050. Behind Fosse is Boston's Carlton Fisk, a great catcher, to be sure — but one who hasn't played one inning of baseball this season!

Although we still consider Marc Hill to be perhaps the best young catching prospect in the majors, we lost a great deal of respect for him when he cried to Wes Westrum over the fact that Mike Sadek had caught two games in a row. He actually began hinting at "play-me-or-trade-me" talk.

Hill bemoaned the fact that Westrum had "promised" him that he would be Dave Rader's backup man, and since Rader was injured, Hill felt that he should catch Every game. Whatever happened to the team man? Didn't Hill consider that the Giants were in a dreadful team batting slump, that Sadek had had one of the hottest bats in the PCL prior to the call-up, and that he brought it right into the National League, getting key hits in the first two or three games he played with the Giants?

OR HAS HILL EVER stopped to consider that if he were still with the Cardinals, who only have Ted Simmons catching for them, that he'd either still be in the minors or catching maybe once a month?

Does anyone realize that in one game, during that horrible Giant injury-losing streak, they had a third (or was it a fourth) string catcher (Chris Arnold) playing left field, a second string right-left fielder-first baseman (Gary Thomasson) playing center, and a second string third baseman (Steve Ontiveros) playing right? No wonder they couldn't win! They had guts just showing up to the park. Throw in John D'Aquisto's arm injury (he says he'll be back good as new next year, but those things often require two seasons before a pitcher is back to normal), and the young Giants may be on their way to acquiring character. Are you listening? Nill? There's nothing like adversity to toughen young pro athletes up for future dog-fight pennant races. If they can hang in tough under the present circumstances, they may be really ready for a pennant in a year or two . . . maybe, with a minor miracle or two, this season. Anybody can win when everything is going right.

Incidentally, don't pay a lot of attention to the Giants' left-on-base statistics. For one thing, good hitting teams always leave a lot of men on base. Weak hitting teams don't, because they never get men on base. For the next thing, pure LOB stats in themselves aren't as important as how many men are left on base in scoring position with less than two outs. If the Giants are failing badly in that department (which they have been, lately), only then will they really be in trouble.

Actually, throw out all the enemy's first innings this year, and the Giants would be in contention. Crazy idea. Since Giant starters can't seem to get by that first inning without wounding themselves, why not let a relief pitcher hurl the initial stanza, and let the starters take over in the second?

OH YES, MARC HILL. It just occurred to us that if Ed Goodson had hung in tough on the bench with his mouth shut like Bruce Miller (who nobody realized was on the roster for the first three weeks of the season) did, he too might now be playing regularly instead of languishing on the Atlanta bench, just as he was doing in San Francisco. What always concerns us about cry babies who blame their poor performance on how they're handled by management, is whether or not they have personal pride. It seems to us that a player would play well for that, if for nothing else.

We know it's hard to believe, but the Giants are still outdrawing Atlanta (hear that Ed Goodson, who said, "It's hard to play with no fans in the stands"?) by about 40,000, and the White Sox, Tigers, KC, the Cubs, Montreal, the Mets, St. Louis and, yes, Atlanta, have all lost more attendance thus far this year than the Giants. And Houston has lost almost as much. Overall attendance in both major leagues, incidentally, is up half a million.

A sudden thought. We keep saying that one of the major reasons for Giants' attendance being down is that Candlestick is inconvenient and has poor weather. Perhaps as major a reason is that it's in a dangerous neighborhood. A friend of ours was last year nearly beaten to death in a parking lot outside the stadium.

LOCAL NOTES: If you didn't know it, Pacifica-San Bruno boy Keith Hernandez, who started the season as the Cardinals' regular first baseman, has been optioned to Tulsa. And if you like to play look-alikes, grab a gander of Rich Burt, former pro baseball player now principal at Daly City's Thornton High, since he grew his mustache and allowed his gray to come out. A dead ringer for Dick Williams. But he doesn't tip as well.

Mills Long Jumper

Vasquez AAU Winner

HUNTINGTON BEACH — Ken Vasquez of Mills High made up for a big disappointment with a State championship over the weekend.

Vasquez, the County's top prep long jumper, missed a chance to compete in the State high school meet when he fouled in a qualifying meet.

But he got another chance in the State boys' AAU championships last weekend, and came through with a 23-1 jump for a first place in the 16-18 group.

Several other Mills athletes, like Vasquez competing for the Millbrae Lions Track Club, placed in their events.

Rick Escobar took third in the 14-15 half mile with a 2:03.8 time. Mike Vernali was fifth in the 14-15 mile with a 4:37 clocking.

The mile relay team of Ron Comaroto, Escobar, Steve Senatori and Paul Senatori was fourth in 3:39.0. Paul Senatori, the anchor man, ran the fastest leg; he just graduated from the eighth grade.

Vasquez will be on hand at Mills for the AAU Pacific Association Junior Olympics July 10-13. About 1,200 athletes and 2,000 spectators are expected for the competition, according to Mills coach Ed Parker.

McLellan Growers Earn 26 Medals

The Rod McLellan Co. of South San Francisco was the winner of 26 coveted medals at the World Orchid Conference held recently at the Palmengarten, Frankfurt/Main, West Germany.

Renowned as the world's largest hybridizers and growers of orchids, "Acres of Orchids" captured the top honors with one great gold medal, five gold medals, 10 silver medals and 10 bronze medals.

Displayed amidst the simulated ruins of an ancient tropical pyramid were hundreds of cut blooms of paphiopedilums, phalaenopsis, and cymbidiums, flown to Frankfurt from San Francisco especially for the week-long event.

Topping the six gold medals was Cymbidium bloomfield, variety solar, on which the judging panel bestowed two gold prizes including the great gold medal signifying one of the very finest of all genera orchids in the show.

Held every third year, this renowned show attracted a half million visitors to the famed Palmengarten.

It was hosted by the German Orchid Society, the Palmengarten and the City of Frankfurt/Main and co-sponsored by the American Orchid Society and the Royal Horticultural Society.

Playgrounds Are Active For Summer

San Bruno Recreation Department's summer playground program is about to begin another season.

A special program has been initiated this summer at Allen School for youngsters entering kindergarten through the third grade in the fall.

Instructed by recreation leader Karen Borrego, youngsters can participate in arts and crafts, contests, sport activities, dance, music, games and special events.

Classes will be held Mondays and Wednesdays July 2-30 from 2-3 p.m. at Allen School, room 15.

All youngsters between kindergarten and third grade interested in becoming a member of "Snoopy's Crowd" may bring a parent or a grownup for registration to Allen School on July 2 from 2-3 p.m. in room 15.

The San Bruno Recreation Department is sponsoring "Snoopy's Crowd" as a no fee program.

Class size will be limited to 25 youngsters.

Pay Delay for County Workers

County employes greeted with moans this week an announcement they would not be paid as scheduled as a new payroll system broke down.

Until this week employes have been paid once a month but under a new computer programming system that was to have been instituted Friday they were to have been paid twice a month.

According to Edward McGuire, county controller, the delay was due to programming difficulties and because of errors in many time cards sent in by employes.

The employes were paid a full month's salary on June 7.

McGuire said they will be paid next Friday instead. Employes in the road department who have been paid twice a month previously will receive their checks as usual, he reported.

When the delay was announced over the sheriff's radio, one deputy commented, "You gotta be kidding."

Disabled Children Take Trip

Nineteen handicapped Boy Scouts and six adult leaders left for a Tacoma, Wash. Scout Jamboree Sunday afternoon, thanks to $4,760.24 in contributions from a generous public.

The youths are handicapped students at the San Bruno El Portal Del Norte and Palos Verdes Schools.

San Brunan Hubert Straubhaar, representing the sponsoring San Bruno American Legion Post 409, was among those most instrumental in putting the trip together. It will be the first time the youngsters have been on an excursion outside the state.

Straubhaar said airline fares come to $2,768.25 and food costs are $500, bringing the total cost for the June 23 through 29 Mt. Rainier Council Boy Scouts of America Handicapped Scout Jamboree at McChord Air Force Base to $3,268.25.

The Scouts flew out of San Francisco International Airport at 4:20 p.m. Sunday, to arrive in Tacoma a little over an hour later.

Straubhaar said all monies donated for the trip not used on this trip will be used by the Scouts on future excursions, or to purchase uniforms or equipment. Straubhaar said he was grateful to the many who donated toward this endeavor.

Bank of America has submitted the low bid of 7.0685 per cent on the $5,250,000 South San Francisco Public Facilities Corporation 1975 bonds which will be used to construct a public safety facility at Grand and Chester Avenues.

South San Francisco councilmen Wednesday night adopted a resolution approving a series of actions related to the sale.

Councilmen approved the members of the corporation, plans and specifications for the facility, authorization to execute a site lease with the corporation and a rental agreement.

While the council was meeting, the board of the lease-back corporation also was accomplishing similar procedures.

Sebastiani Green Hungarian Wine, 5th

If fish or poultry are on your shopping list you may also want to include a bottle of Sebastiani Green Hungarian Wine. This delicious white wine has a fragrant aroma and is basically dry with just a whisper of sweetness.

A three hour chilling period is recommended. Over chilling will destroy the subtle aroma and flavor of white wines.

Mayors Approve Task Force to Aid Joint Action

The San Mateo Council of Mayors Friday approved the concept of establishing a joint task force made up of city and county personnel to improve cooperation and communication between cities.

Only Mayor Victor Kyrikais of Daly City opposed the measure, fearing such a joint venture would usurp the powers of elected officials and perhaps compromise city and county officials in their dealings on certain subjects.

Kyriakis questioned the value of having such a task force to reach conclusions on issues confronting communities.

He felt each city should evalute its own needs.

James P. DeChaine, chairman of the San Mateo County City Managers' Association, listed 11 items the association felt should be studied jointly, including:

The California Council on Criminal Justice Computerized Information System (PRISM); continued study of the controversial "911" system; solid waste planning; housing and Community Development Act; Manpower Planning Ant.

Revenue sharing process; cable television; animal control; transit issues; collective bargaining; and, legislative analysis.

DeChaine said another appropriate subject for assistant city managers to look into is the exploration of ways by which additional efforts in joint purchasing of goods and services, plus consulting services, might be made.

Such agreements could result in substantial savings to communities involved, DeChaine said.

DeChaine said problem-solving "on a joint cooperative basis, with factual information compiled for a common data base, should result in considerably improved communications and cooperation between the cities and the county."

County supervisor James V. Fitzgerald, attending the meeting held in South San Francisco, said "An honest difference of opinion on (mutual phone number) 911 was created because we didn't have the facts."

Fitzgerald supported the idea of gathering all the facts and disseminating them at the same time as proposed by the City Managers' Association.

"We must get together to serve the people," Fitzgerald said, citing how the county might cut the tax rate 20 cents while a city might raise it 20 cents.

There is no progress in government when this happens, Fitzgerald said.

In other action, the mayors heard Ted Lyman, the project director for PRISM at Stanford Research Institute, explain potential problems associated with development of the criminal justice information system.

PRISM is a complex system funneling data into a centeralized computer bank and disseminating the information to law enforcement agencies as it is needed.

Councilman Art Lepore opposed the PRISM concept, voicing concern over its possible invasion of privacy and there ramifications.

He asked that the PRISM matter "be looked at very closely."

No action was taken on the issue.

Weekend Holdups Reported

Several armed robberies were reported to police around the county over the weekend.

The victims included a Belmont restaurant, a San Bruno drive-in theater and two Daly City service stations.

Two men were in custody, netted in a county roadblock after the Belmont robbery, according to police.

The arrests occurred shortly after a holdup of the bar at the Tailwinds restaurant, 600 Ralston Ave., Belmont, at 9 p.m. Saturday. Two men answering the description of the robbers were arrested by Menlo Park police near the Dumbarton Bridge after Belmont police had put out a county-wide roadblock bulletin.

The two men allegedly had entered the bar, one pointed a gun at bartender Joe Segura and ordered him to empty two cash registers, which Segura did.

They then left and one was seen running to their car by Belmont Officer Michael W. Storey and Reserve Officer Kenneth Ajuria as they cruised by but before the holdup was reported.

A few minutes later Storey and Ajuria stopped and checked out a car on El Camino Real after hearing the radio bulletin, but turned up nothing.

It had occurred to Storey and Ajuria in the meantime, Storey reported, that they may have seen the actual robber and vehicle.

Shortly afterward, Menlo Park Officers William L. Frank and Al Giovannoni saw the suspect vehicle and made the stop on Willow Road near the entrance to the Dumbarton Bridge.

Arrested were John Edward Feagan, 34, of Newark, and Michael Henry Bailey, 34, of Fremont, a lift truck operator. Both were booked at county jail on suspicion of armed robbery. Bailey was released on $20,000 bail and is to appear in Central District Municipal Court at 10 a.m. July 8.

Officers said they found $322 in loose money in the suspect car's glove compartment and $882.61 in Bailey's possession, but the latter claimed that was from cashing a check.

Two juveniles, one armed with a .22-caliber handgun, robbed the Fox Skyline Theater in San Bruno Sunday night of its weekend receipts, police reported.

According to police, the youths, both described as between 15 and 17 years of age, accosted the theater manager as the late movie was endiung and forced him into his office. There they collected "quite a bit of money," police said, and escaped on foot.

Three youths robbed a Serramonte service station Friday afternoon by threatening the 13-year-old attendant with violence, police said.

No weapons were shown, however, the trio made repeated threates unless the attendant handed over money in the cash register, police said.

Work Together, Community Colleges Advised

The San Mateo Community College District should strive to be a comprehensive collection of schools rather than an autonomous group of colleges all of which seek to be comprehensive on their own.

That common thread runs throughout much of a special report prepared for district trustees. It was given to them Wednesday evening during a special meeting at the College of San Mateo.

The report, "Educational Program Master Plan," is the first of four in-depth master plan analyses, complete with a myriad of recommendations, which will be delivered to the trustees in the future.

There are four major divisions in Wednesday's report. These involve academic programs, occupational programs, student services and community services.

A key thrust to be found in all of those sections is that the district ought to be more aware of districtwide needs in terms of registration, course offerings, etc.

There also is an emphasis on the desire to begin to serve the district's new and older clients. The average age of the college populace in San Mateo County is rising to the point where it is approaching 30 years old.

Traditional enrollment patterns are undergoing change, according to the report, and, with the economy going through alterations of its own, that combination has made it mandatory for the district to reassess its resources and directions.

Wednesday's report says the district ought to try to institute ways to allow students to begin and end their course work at non-traditional times.

There also is a recommendation involving better cooperation with local high school districts.

In the section devoted to student services, the committee on master planning recommends that child care facilities be established, that inter-campus transportation be considered and that health services for students ought to be improved.

In the section on community services, a favorite concern of the trustees themselves, it is recommended that each college set up a public information office which would promote community service programs, that the district provide a more balanced program of such services districtwide and that ethnic minorities ought to be better served by these programs.

To date, more than nine months of work has gone into the master planning effort which has been under the direction of Max Tadlock.

JESD Mulls 25 Teacher Cuts

A struggling budget and declining revenue may force the release of 25 or more teachers in the Jefferson Elementary School District.

Exactly how many teachers will not be known until the end of June.

The district is holding fast with its opinion that at least 25 teachers will be released.

The Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association, however, insists that resignations, retirements and teachers who already have been released will be more than sufficient to balance the budget.

The district and teachers aired their views in the question of possible releases at a hearing earlier this month.

Paul J. Doyle, the hearing officer, is expected to return to the district with a determination by June 23. The board of trustees are not legally bound to follow that determination.

"Our financial situation is one of the poorest in the county," said Dr. Vinton Stratton, associate superintendent of instruction.

"The job picture right now is a matter of waiting for things to be known and they won't be until the end of the month," Stratton said.

The JESD, faced with declining enrollment, sent termination notices to 106 teachers in March.

Eighty-one teachers sought hearings to keep those positions.

The number of teachers ultimately released, if any, depends on several factors, Stratton said.

He said he anticipates a loss of at least 25 teachers simply because of a reduction in enrollment. Support personnel for programs such as reading specialization and opportunity class teachers for students who otherwise might be released from the district.

"Reduction in enrollment alone does not tell the whole story," Stratton said. A reduction in state and federal revenue sources, he said, also plays a major role.

In addition, Stratton said, the district plans to increase the staff to student ratio to about 1 to 31 from 1 to 28. As a result, Benjamin Franklin will lose seven teachers; Fernando Rivera, three; and Colma Intermediate, about five.

The district is waiting for the determination from the hearing officer.

"I don't think that any less than 25 teachers will be released," Stratton said. Teachers released remain on a seniority list for rehire in case the district needs teachers in the future.

However, the district and the teachers have been at odds concerning the need to release teachers.

Mike Cusick, JCTA president, said the teachers' attorney has argued 20 teachers already have been released and 10 more have retired or resigned — a total of 30 losses. That number already is five more than the district says it needs to release, Cusick said.

The district released 39 teachers last year.

The president also said the teachers were given two reasons for the release. On March 15, the district said in letters to teachers with lottery numbers 1-55 that their service no longer was needed "because of declining enrollment."

However, at the hearing, the district changed its reason to "reduction in services."

A JCTA attorney, Larry Davis, said that according to Clayborn vs. Board of Education, the district is not allowed to change the reason for termination. For that reason, Davis argued, the teachers who received the letters can not be legally dismissed.

The school district by law must notify teachers of their dismissal by March 1 although they are not certain of their revenue that early in the year.

Cusick said he is certain it is possible for the district to keep all teachers. The district, he said, is in an awkward position, because total state and federal funding for 1975-76 is not yet known and the continuation of an ESSA grant will not be determined by the federal government until the end of June. The grant allowed the district to retain 28 teachers.

Cusick also said it is wrong to reduce support services.

"The big thing is the way they (the district) went about it," Cusick said. "They're dealing with kids who need the most help. I think the district is concerned to some extent, but then these are the areas they have said they will reduce."

However, Stratton said the district is very concerned about the possible reduction of support services.

"If we just reduce the proportion of teachers to class enrollment, no harm will be done to educational quality. But, if we have to reduce support services, it obviously has an effect on programs. Everytime we cut back on a special program, I don't like to see it happen," Stratton said.

Dismissals will be based on a seniority list of 81 teachers. Support service personnel with credentials to go back to classrooms are entitled to bump others lower on the seniority list, he said.

Stratton said the JESD budget is 82-85 per cent teacher salary costs.

Ten teachers costs about $100,000 in salaries and fringe benefits, Stratton said.

Supervisors Restore Cuts In Health

The state appears ready to restore some $800,000 from the San Mateo County Health and Welfare budget, Dr. George Pickett told county supervisors Thursday.

Acting on the possibility, the supervisors tentatively restored the $800,000 cut from Dr. Pickett's mental health division budget just 10 days ago. And, it was noted, the board's action may mean only six of 33 layoffs anticipated earlier will be necessary.

Dr. Pickett told supervisors during their budget hearings that the state legislator seems likely to recommend funds in the state budget which would give San Mateo County $836,000 in state aid for programs, matched by a county contribution of $70,000.

That amount, combined with programs retained by supervisors June 9, would give the mental health division an additional $1.3 million. Approval by supervisors is contingent on final action by the legislature and Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

Supervisors gave their approval of $406,000 worth of programs tentatively okayed earlier this month, and voted on retaining various programs costing $905,000 which would have been eliminated.

The board also restored these programs:

a Peninsula Hospital Mental Health Center, $150,000, with Supervisor Edward J. Bacciocco opposing.

a School-Community Health Grant to pioneer and evaluate methods of providing mental health to children, $238,617.

a Peninsula Suicide Prevention Center, $47,993.

Smouldering SSF Fire Stumps Firemen

South San Francisco firemen for the past week have been dousing to no apparent avail a persistent underground fire near the city's sewage treatment plant.

Chief Lawrence Toellner said the smoldering inferno took hold through decomposition, apparently aided by the recent hot spell.

According to the chief, "From the standpoint of fires, it's no problem. It just takes a lot of work to get it out."

The irritable fire is located in an area behind the sewer plant used for years as a sludge deposit site. One problem in fighting the fire is that no one knows for sure how deep it goes.

According to an agreement the city has with Tillo Products, the sludge is mixed with rice hulls and coffee grounds, which, after a period of time, decomposes into a garden compost.

City Manager Ed Alario said the agreement, now being reviewed, presents considerable savings to the city in that the sludge need not be trucked to Menlo Park for disposal. "Costs could skyrocket if we have to start hauling it," he said.

Alario Wednesday night told the City Council the staff has been aware of the problem and "the fire department is working on it." He said a meeting is set for Friday with Tillo Products representatives to discuss "a stricter agreement."

Councilman Terry Mirri broached the subject at the meeting, questioning "whether contractural agreements have been met." He said he wants an investigation and report on the matter.

Alario said he would do so, but cautioned, "It can't be resolved over night." He also considered the fire "a dangerous situation" and requested that curiosity seekers stay away from the site because "you could step in that stuff and disappear."

Chief Toellner equated the situation to "peat bog fires of Ireland" and acknowledged the difficulty in fighting it because of the unknown depth of the area.

He said one way to fight such fires is to use a bulldozer and turn the materials over. "Here we can't do it because we don't know the bottom to it. The bulldozer might sink out of sight."

He said no earlier reports were made of the fire, which covered upwards to two acres, "because we didn't consider it being anything of consequence. There was no hazard to the city or our neighbors, and a small amount of smoke went to the bay."

The Air Pollution Control Board contacted the city concerning the possibility the white smoke was creating air pollution.

Firemen have been manning two inch-and-a-half lines daily during daylight hours since last Tuesday afternoon, when it was determined the fire was "getting out of hand," said the chief. "We'll continue to work until the problem is solved," he said.

Consultant Gets Earful At Hearing

Noise from highway traffic, from barking dogs and from jet air aircraft dominated discussion between a group of 15 city residents and Dr. Maurice Garbell, noise consultant to the City of San Bruno.

Dr. Garbell scheduled the forum to elicit public complaints of noise in the city, to aid him in his preparation of the noise element of the General Plan.

Pepper Drive resident Norma Mondtrans told Dr. Garbell noise from traffic on Interstate 280, which runs directly behind her house, was so intense she has great difficulty conversing with neighbors.

"When they built that freeway they took out all the trees behind my house and put up a cyclone fence, which does nothing to muffle the noise," she said. "It's very, very, very noisy in the back of my house."

Dr. Garbell assured Mrs. Mondtrans the state had indicated it would "listen" to cities when applications were made for noise barriers to be erected along the side of existing freeways and those under construction. He also said a recommendation that a wall be built along 280 was included in his noise element.

Dr. Garbell explained that to muffle noise from wheels and engines would necessitate a three or four-foot barrier along the freeway, but that noise from truck exhaust stafts, would call for at least a 10-foot noise barrier.

Mrs. Eleanor Larson asked if any consideration had been given to banning trucks from Interstate 280, noting other cities, among them Oakland, had designated some freeways off-limits to trucks.

Dr. Garbell said the truck ban was not at this time included in his report, but told Mrs. Larson the law states that within four or five years trucks "will have to be as quiet as automobiles."

Trucks on residential streets, especially on Walnut and Euclid avenues, and the noise from pneumatic drills and air compressors concerned Rose Urbach, who called for more consistent police enforcement of city ordinances.

"I am proposing," commented Dr. Garbell, "the establishment of a noise enforcement unit under the direction of the police department."

He said the problem of trucks traveling on residential streets must be "totally solved," and cited a tough Alameda County ordinance banning trucks from neighborhood streets.
